14th Annual
GSA Achievement Award for Real Property Innovation

Call for Entries 2010

Asset Management
Sustainability
Workplace Innovation

This program is intended to recognize projects and processes that improve the stewardship of Federal real property through outstanding asset management, sustainability, and workplace innovation practices.

The U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) established the Achievement Award for Real Property Innovation program to serve as a catalyst for Federal agencies to share innovative and successful initiatives they have implemented to improve their management of real property. Since its inception, the program has attracted over 400 unique ideas from the entire Federal real property community. Ideas submitted cover a wide spectrum of real property areas, including business practices, asset management and planning, customer service, information systems, performance measures, security, sustainability, and workforce/human capital strategy. To meet the goal of sharing these ideas with Federal agencies, the Office of Real Property Management publishes an annual publication of submitted entries derived from the awards program that highlights and recognizes innovative projects. The award highlights are also provided on our Website at www.gsa.gov/realpropertypolicy.

This year we are focusing on Asset Management, Sustainability and Workplace Innovation. We encourage you to share initiatives, innovations and projects in these categories by submitting entries to the award program.

An independent panel of distinguished public and private sector industry experts will judge the award program entries in each of these categories. GSA will recognize exemplary entries by providing monetary awards, publishing the entries, and encouraging the adoption of innovative practices across the Federal Government.

As custodians of Federal real property, Federal agencies are tasked with the responsibility to implement prudent and innovative policies to ensure real property is managed in an efficient and effective manner. Through the GSA Achievement Award for Real Property Innovation, GSA is promoting the objective of improving the stewardship of Federal real property by rewarding exemplary initiatives, innovations and projects in Asset Management, Sustainability and Workplace Innovation.

Call for Entries 2010

Award Program Overview

GSA's Office of Governmentwide Policy, Office of Real Property Management, is seeking entries for the Fourteenth Annual GSA Achievement Award for Real Property Innovation. The awards program recognizes exemplary initiatives, innovations, and projects in the following three categories:

Asset Management – Achievements related to asset management planning, inventory management, performance management, utilization and disposal of real property, transportation and infrastructure improvement, and portfolio optimization.

Sustainability – Achievements related to sustainable business practices in the area of green buildings and workplaces, such as developing high performance work environments, and implementing Executive Order 13423, "Strengthening Federal Environmental, Energy and Transportation Management." Practices include alternative work strategies, as well as compliance with the "Guiding Principles for Federal Leadership in High Performance and Sustainable Buildings."

Workplace Innovation – Achievements related to creating innovative workplaces that are focused on the future by fostering environments that incorporate integrated and sustainable approaches, enhances employee and business performance, that result in long-term cost savings and design.

Entrant Eligibility

Only Federal Government employees may participate.

Government contractors or employees of the Office of Governmentwide Policy are not eligible to participate.

Initiatives, innovations, and projects in asset management, sustainability and workplace innovation must have been initiated by or completed within the last three years prior to the entry deadline of July 1, 2010.

Non-winning submissions from previous years may be resubmitted but must comply with the new submission requirements set forth in this document.

Entry Package

All entries must include the following components:

1. A separate summary page (500 words or less) describing the entry.

2. A clear and concise narrative, which will be judged on the criteria of originality/innovation, effectiveness of the project or program, quantitative analysis, and replicability, as outlined below.

Originality/Innovation (25 Points)

Describe how the innovation in asset management, sustainability or workplace innovation has changed your organization's approach to business or service or how it has improved your organization's policies, practices, products and/or services.

Effectiveness of the Project or Program (25 Points)

Describe the principal benefits or results (i.e., organizational success, customer satisfaction, employee productivity, and financial savings) of the project's implementation. Has the innovation been applied to a single facility in your inventory or to your organization's entire portfolio? What challenges have been alleviated by the project or program? How were challenges to the development and implementation of this project or program addressed?

Quantitative Analysis (20 Points)

Define how your organization measures the success of the innovation. Describe the extent to which a quality control process has been developed (include measures, targets, savings, and other reporting elements).

Replicability (20 Points)

Describe the innovation's transferability or the degree to which it can be successfully replicated by other agencies. Can other organizations readily adopt the asset management, sustainability or workplace innovation program? Describe any lessons learned, obstacles faced, and solutions to surmount in execution that would be valuable to other organizations.

Clarity and Thoroughness of the Entry (10 Points)

The jury will allocate points based on how clearly and concisely the entrant describes the success of the project.

3. A completed entry form must contain the authorizing official's contact information. The agency official sponsoring the entry must be a level higher than team members. Note: It is the responsibility of the applicant to determine the appropriate authorizing official level that meets the applicant's department/agency approval standards.

Entry Submission

The completed entry application package, including the entry form and summary, must not exceed six pages of text on 8.5 x 11 inch paper, if submitted as either hard copy or electronic file. Responses should be single-spaced and typed in 12-point font. Additional submission details include:

There is no entry fee for submissions.

An agency may submit more than one entry, but a separate entry package is required for each submission.

All entries become the property of the Office of Real Property Management and will not be returned. One (1) high-resolution (250 dpi or higher) unaltered photograph must be included with your entry. All entries must be postmarked or electronically submitted to GSA no later than midnight July 1, 2010.

Selection of Winners

An independent panel of government and industry experts from the real estate community will evaluate the applications and select the winning entries in each category. Judges will use the criteria listed under Entry Package as a guide for evaluating each entry and will score the entry out of 100 possible points. Winners will be notified both electronically and by mail upon selection.

A maximum of three monetary awards—one in the category of asset management, one in the category of sustainability, and one in the category of workplace innovation—will be presented. GSA will present monetary awards of $5,000 to an individual winner or $10,000 to a team winner comprised of two or more people. In the event, the judges determine that two exemplary innovations exist in either category, they may designate a tie and the monetary award will be divided between the winners. There may not be one winner for both categories. Recognition may also be granted to other submissions at the discretion of the judging panels.

Recognition

GSA will present the awards at a ceremony in Washington, DC, during the Summer/Fall of 2010. In addition, to the monetary award, the winning organization in each category will be presented with an engraved slate monument suitable for public display, as a symbol of your organization's commitment to innovation and excellence in real property stewardship. Each team member will receive a certificate acknowledging his or her role as part of the winning team. Winners will also be invited to share their success stories at the ceremony.

All entries will be highlighted in the "GSA Achievement Award for Real Property Innovation Publication" as well as posted on the GSA Office of Real Property Management website at www.gsa.gov/realpropertypolicy.
