Opening Doors

government contracting opportunities for veteran, service-disabled veteran, Native
American owned and other small businesses

September 2005

Dear Industry Partner:

We appreciate your interest in doing business with the federal government. This comprehensive guide to the federal marketplace was prepared for business firms who are interested in contracting with federal civilian and military agencies within the Pacific Rim Region (Arizona, California, Guam, Hawaii and Nevada).

This directory will provide you with information to market your commodity or service to agencies of the federal government and the U.S. Department of Defense. GSA neither guarantees nor promises any business or contracts will result from your contact with the agencies or organizations listed. We have also listed additional resources for you to contact to obtain helpful information regarding the procurement process.

The U.S. General Services Administration's Office of Small Business Utilization is here to assist you by working towards its mission to engage in strategies that provide access to opportunities for small, minority, veteran, HUBZone, and women business owners in government procurement.

Should you need further assistance, please feel free to contact us either by e-mail at r9sbconference@gsa.gov or by calling one of the offices below.

About the U.S. General Services Administration

Mission

We help federal agencies better serve the public by offering, at best value, superior workplaces, expert solutions, acquisition services, and management policies.

Organization

The U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) is headquartered in Washington, DC with 11 regional offices in major U.S. cities and field offices in many locations around the country. GSA consists of the Federal Acquisition Service (FAS), the Public Buildings Service (PBS), the Office of Governmentwide Policy (OGP), and various Staff Offices.

What GSA Purchases

GSA is one of the federal government's largest buyers, contracting for billions of dollars worth of products and services each year for its U.S. government "customers." These customers include most agencies of the executive, judicial, and legislative branches and federal government and military facilities worldwide. GSA rents, builds, furnishes, and maintains government offices and buys products ranging from pens to state-of-the-art computers. GSA also contracts for services as varied as trash removal and information technology. Some examples of the millions of products and services the agency buys:

General Purpose Supplies, Equipment and Services: GSA operates the worldwide purchase and distribution system that other federal agencies use to buy billions of dollars worth of products and services for day-to-day operations. Most GSA contracts are for standard services and "commercial off-the-shelf" products and equipment.

Information Technology Solutions and Network Services: GSA directs and coordinates federal purchases of equipment and services for information technology and network solutions, office automation, and telecommunications system and support.

Building Construction, Repair and Maintenance: GSA, the federal government's architect and builder, offers contracting opportunities for building design, construction, repairs, remodeling, and maintenance.

How GSA Buys

The government buys supplies and services through contracts issued by GSA offices throughout the country. Many GSA contracts are advertised, awarded and managed through the regional contracting offices. Most contracts are awarded through regional offices for local delivery. Some nationwide contracts require delivery anywhere in the United States or overseas. These nationwide contracts are handled by GSA and provide the government with products and services through a variety of procurement programs in accordance with the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) and the U.S. General Services Administration's Acquisition Manual (GSAM).

While assuring that the federal government's requirements for personal property and administrative services are efficiently met at the least cost to the taxpayer and at the best value, GSA is responsible for managing the schedules program, sales from which exceed $38 billion annually. Over 75% of all schedule holders are small businesses. This allows federal agencies to easily identify small business firms, specifically those in socio-economic categories. GSA delivers best value and innovative solutions in Information Technology (IT), Network Services, and Professional Services in supporting government agency missions worldwide. Businesses in this field are encouraged to register as a contractor on the GSA IT-Solutions Shop webpage at <http://it-solutions.gsa.gov/>.

Schedule

What Do I Do First?

Register with the Central Contractor Registration (CCR) – current and potential vendors are required to register in CCR to be awarded federal government contracts. Vendors are required to complete a one-time registration to provide basic information relevant to procurement and financial transactions. Vendors must update or renew their registration annually to maintain an active status. Registration does not guarantee business with the government. Please visit www.ccr.gov to register or contact the assistance center at (888) 227-2423.

Small Business Dynamic Search – integrated with CCR to be the one portal for entering and searching for small businesses. When registering in CCR, small businesses must choose to also register for this service in order to be included in the database. This replaces what was formally called Pro-Net.

Where to Look for Bid Opportunities

Federal Business Opportunities (FedBizOpps) – designated as the single source for all federal government procurement opportunities that exceed $25,000. Vendors can search for contracting opportunities as well as register to receive procurement announcements from FedBizOpps. Registration can be completed online at www.fedbizopps.gov, click on Vendor Notification Service, to begin searching click on Find Business Opportunities from the main page.

GSA Forecast of Contracting Opportunities – on annual on-line document that lists GSA's anticipated contracting opportunities for the current or upcoming fiscal year, giving prospective contractors enough lead time to develop marketing strategies, compile the necessary information, and carefully prepare proposals. It can be found at http://w3.gsa.gov/web/i/ion/con\_opp.nsf

GSA Sub-Contracting Directory – a listing of large companies who have contracts with GSA for goods or services worth more than $500,000 (more than $1 million for construction). Public Law 95-507 requires these prime contractors to have subcontracting that suggest the dollar value and the percentage of goods and services that may be supplied through subcontract with small, small disadvantaged, women-owned small, HUBZone small, veteran-owned small, and service disabled veteran-owned small sinesses. It can be found online at http://w3.gsa.gov/web/i/subs\_dir.nsf

SBA Sub-Contracting Network: "Sub-Net" – online listing of prime contractors' posted subcontracting opportunities. These may or may not be reserved for small businesses, and may include either solicitations or other notices such as teaming partners and subcontractors on future contracts. Small businesses can review this website at <http://web.sba.gov/subnet/> to identify opportunities in their area of expertise. While the website is designed to primarily serve as a posting site for large businesses, it can also be utilized by federal, state, and local governments, non-profit organizations, colleges and universities and small businesses for the same purpose.
